How will Europe look like in 2038? What visions do young citizens of today have for a future Europe? What are their answers for today's major societal challenges like ageing, financial crisis, clean energy, mobility/migration, freedom and security? Which measures do young citizens suggest to overcome terrorism and violence, inequalities and social exclusion, prejudice and discrimination? "Europe2038: the Voice of the Youth" project seeks to answer these urgent questions in 7 European countries.

CONCLUSIONS

Spanish youth imagine their future in Europe. They expect a more united Europe; nonetheless the most of them prefer to stay in Spain.

A more united Europe promotes 2 different points of view: a positive one, where educative and professional oportunities arises, and a negative one where the differences between rich and poor countries increases.

Spanish youngers recognize to know other European countries and cultures. They would like to go abroad to improve other languages but the half of them wouldn't go for living although they'd have professional o personal difficulties in Spain.

The main worries for young people are finding a job, improving the educational system, overcome the financial crisis, fight against terrorism and eliminate gender and cultural inequalities.

Develop European policies and improve the education system are the most important measures to overcome these problems.
